

I'm alarmed by the Washington Post article about Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election. This is a frightening example of the dangers of media consolidation.

Sinclair is obligated by law to serve the public interest. But when large companies control the airwaves, our democracy is eroded.

Sinclair's actions show why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them. Please immediately put a stop to their plans to preempt prime time television with a one-sided political commercial.
